

DENISE SCHMIDT

Public Service Commission of Wisconsin

As water policy advisor at the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin, Denise works on issues related to the planning, evaluation, and implementation of the Commission's water regulatory programs. She has worked on utility financial management, water resource and land use planning, and policy issues as a regulator, regional and local planner, and consultant in Wisconsin, Connecticut, and the Southeast.

Denise is a board trustee of the American Water Works Association's (AWWA) Wisconsin Section, chair of the Alliance for Water Efficiency's Education and Outreach Committee, an instructor at Michigan State University's Institute for Public Utilities, a member of NARUC's staff subcommittee on water, and chair of the Town of Middleton's plan commission. She was recently appointed as a country representative for the International Water Association (IWA) Water Loss Specialists Group.
