

WILL JERNIGAN

Cavanaugh & Associates

Will Jernigan is the director of water efficiency with Cavanaugh, a consulting firm that develops innovative solutions and programs that optimize water efficiency and waste-to-energy. Will has worked with over 1,500 water systems across North America in the field of water loss delivering teaching, auditing and water balance analysis, validation, NRW program design and implementation. He is a licensed professional engineer and is recognized as a North American water loss industry leader.

Will currently leads the American Water Works Association (AWWA) Water Loss Software Subcommittee which is responsible for the development and management of the freely-available water audit software for North America. He was recently appointed as U.S. Expert Representative for the ISO 24528 Water Loss Standard as well as the North American Representative for the IWA Water Loss Specialists Group.