JEANNE HOFFMAN

City of Madison, Wisconsin

Jeanne Hoffman is the City of Madison's facilities and sustainability manager. She is the leader of the team of City architects and engineers to remodel and construct the City's inventory buildings in a sustainable manner. She also works with all agencies to help them achieve sustainability goals. Additionally, Jeanne works with community partners to help the community better understand sustainability. Prior to becoming the facilities and sustainability manager, Jeanne was a mayoral aide to former Madison Mayor Dave Cieslewicz. In this capacity, she worked on planning and development, environment, and transportation issues. Prior to her work with the City of Madison, Jeanne was the executive director of the Bicycle Federation of Wisconsin.
