MICHAEL PROKOP

Deloitte

Mike Prokop is a managing director in Deloitte's Regulatory and Operational Risk practice specializing in blockchain technology, regulatory compliance, credit risk, and trade surveillance. He has more than 30 years of experience in the energy, resources, and industrial industries. Mike currently leads Deloitte's blockchain advisory efforts in the United States for energy as a Blockchain Fellow, a position that has him guiding the firm's investments and solutions in this emerging technology. He also founded and currently runs Deloitte's Energy Solutions Council, an energy industry-wide risk and compliance roundtable that identifies and promotes best practices in energy trading. In the course of his work, Mike has extensive contact with regulators and represents Deloitte on the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission's Energy and Environmental Markets Advisory Committee. Prior to joining Deloitte in 2014, Mike was an energy brokerage executive at Merrill Lynch in New York; the head of Merrill Lynch's New York Mercantile Exchange (NYMEX) floor operations; a managing partner with Amerex; a Global inter-dealer swaps broker; and the head of the global energy asset class of the CME Group's NYMEX division.
