WILL HAVEMEYER

Swift Current Energy

Will Havemeyer is a Partner and Chief Legal Officer of Swift Current Energy, a full service renewable energy developer and investor, managing projects through to final development and operations. Bringing a versatile blend of energy, corporate, and transactional experience, Will joined the founding team at Swift Current in 2016. With expertise in navigating complex projects from concept to completion, Will touches all aspects of Swift Current's business, including project development, financing and operations.

Prior to joining Swift Current, Will was an early member of the senior team at IMG Midstream, a private equity-backed IPP developing and operating a fleet of distributed-level natural gas powered energy facilities in the Mid-Atlantic. Previously, while at Terra-Gen Power, Will served as financing and development counsel on the build-out and disposition of multiple utility-scale wind energy facilities. At First Wind, Will served as counsel on more than 2GW of wind, solar and natural gas project development, financing, acquisition, and disposition efforts from Maine to Hawaii.

Prior to moving into the energy arena, Will advised large real estate developers and real estate investment managers at Goodwin Procter. He received his A.B. in Government & Legal Studies from Bowdoin College and his J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law. He is based at the Boston headquarters of Swift Current and lives in the area with his family and their two dogs.
